as been needed in China, and only the es of Aguinaldo and the Boxers can criticise it. Half of the Democrats in Con-Seventh Question-'Would you be willing to make the army 200,000 if the Republican ders said so, or half a million if they

"Answer-It is hard to believe that this estion is put in good faith, for no one has dreamed of asking for an army of 200,of a half million. Abraham Lincoln once had to ask for a large army, and in spite of the opposition of the politicians, whose political heir and assign Mr. Bryan is, the people gave him what he asked. No nerease of the army will ever be asked for by Republicans save because of reasons which would satisfy the people as they were satisfied in the days of Lincoln. Eighth Question-'What is your title to the Filipino? Did you buy him or did you get him by force? Answer-There is, of course, no title the Filipino save as there is a title to the nhabitants of Alaska or of the Hawaiian islands, and he was not bought save exactly as dwellers in the Louisiana territory. uding what is now Mr. Bryan's own lefferson. The Philippine islands were acquired under President McKinley by treaty and purchased exactly as the Louislana territory was acquired under Jefferson, Florida under Monroe and all the rest of the territories we have acquired. Ninth Question-'Do you think you ca buy the right to govern people?"

Answer-This has already been answered in my reply to No. 8. Evidently Thomas fferson thought we could buy the right to govern the Indians of the Louisiana purchase, and Andrew Jackson thought we could similarly acquire the right to govern the Seminoles of Florida. Tenth Question-'What are you going to do with the Filipino when you get him?

Are you going to kill him?'
"Ans ver-We are not going to kill the Filipino unless he tries to kill our soldiers, and he will stop trying to kill our soldiers becomes convinced that very soon after he he will receive no further aid from the party of which Mr. Bryan is chief. As to what we are going to do with him, the answer is imple. We are going to civilize him and give him the peace, order, individual liberty and gradual increase of self-government, of which Mr. Bryan would deprive him for all time by turning him over to a yndicate of corrupt Chinese half-breeds and ferocious Tagal bandits. OUTBREAK WAS CERTAIN. "Mr. Bryan yesterday attempted to an swer what I said about his attacks on the United States army. He says that the President, in his message of December, 1898, asked for an army of 100,000 men two months before there was any war in the ine islands. He asks 'Does Reosevelt know this?' Of course I know It: and let me also add that Mr. Bryan ought to know, what every well-instructed schoolboy knows, that at the very time in December the Philippine insurgent army was threatening our outposts and a collision was imminent any moment. Aguinaldo at that time was trying to organize the remnants of the Spanish army in conjunction with his own followers in a war against us. The bill in which the increase the army was provided for itself explicitly set forth the conditions in the Philipnes as a reason for keeping the army up. Every intelligent observer knew there would be trouble in the Philippines if the treaty was confirmed

"The bill for the temporary increase, which Mr. Bryan apparently seeks to persuade his hearers is a permanent increase, was introduced by Senator Cockrell, of Missouri, a Democratic supporter of Mr. Bryan, and the bulk of the patriotic Democrats in both houses voted for it-for at that time the Kansas City platform had not sought to make the dishonor of the flag a national issue and the Democratic conventions in Celorado and California were in their platforms calling for the retention of the Philippine islands. The record, therefore, shows that this present temporary army of 65,000 regulars and 35,000 volunteers was called for in December because of the threatened trouble in the Philippines. Any statesman with the slightest pretention to the name could not but see that this trouble was threatening, and the President would have been criminally derelict in his duty to the Nation had he failed to provide for it. The trouble was certain to arise, having in view the attitude of Aguinaldo, unless he rejected the treaty, and indeed the outbreak ocwhen Mr. Bryan did his part in working THREE MORE THOUSANDS for the acceptance of the treaty by the Senate he estopped himself from any right to criticise the carrying out of the pledges to which he became in honor bound when he advocated that treaty. "Now I have answered Mr. Bryan's question on this part, as I will gladly answer any question he will put to me. Now, let him show equal frankness and readiness in answering these questions "First-If elected, will Mr. Bryan pay the gations of the Nation in gold or in sil-

"Second-Will he refuse to accept the electoral votes of North Carolina because obtained without the consent of the governed, and will he now, at once, denounce the action of his party associates who elped to nominate him for establishing by the Constitution in North Carolina the doctrine that one man is good enough to govern another without his consent? "Third-Will he denounce his party as-ates in Congress who voted on June 1 last that the national government should not be given the power to control trusts. 'He says that all trusts are bad. Will he denounce as hypocritical his party associates who support him on that platform, and yet themselves are beneficiaries of the cotton bale, whisky and ice trusts? The question is not to be met by saying that there are trusts in which Republicans are interested. The question is one of good faith, of hypocrisy. If all trusts are bad, as he represents, then what right has he to be supported and to accept the support

Governor Roosevelt, at the close of his speech, introduced Capt. Wm. E. English, who spoke briefly. He asserted that at such a time as this all good citizens who

INCIDENTS OF THE NIGHT.

Train Turned Over to Kentuckians-A Young Woman and a Bouquet.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. EVANSVILLE, Ind., Oct. 12.-The Roosevelt train was to-night turned over to a committee from Kentucky by H. S. New, of the Republican national committee, who, with Perry S. Heath, left for Chicago at | the accident occurred is not known. The 12:20 o'clock to-night. The train will start | dead man was found by his wife, who had on the Kentucky trip about 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. The first stop will be at Henderson. Capt. William English will accompany Governor Roosevelt as far as Richmond Moorman, Many Years a Louisville. The Governor will present Mrs. English with the Rough Rider hat he wore through Indiana as a souvenir.

A pretty little incident occurred to-night when Governor Roosevelt entered the Grand Opera House. He came in while Colonel Denby was speaking. The latter closed his remarks as Governor Roosevelt entered, and the band played "The Starspangled Banner." The house in an instant became wild with enthusiasm. Men shouted and women waved their handkerchiefs. Colonel Denby then introduced Governor Roosevelt. Another pleasing incident, and one that indicated the loyalty of Evansville women, occurred about 11 o'clock to-night. A very pretty girl of about twenty-two years approached Charles Schmidt, of Indianapolis, on a street-car bound for the depot. She carried a beautiful bouquet of carnations, and timidly asked Mr. Schmidt if he would see that they were given to Colonel Rooseto have them," she said, so pleadingly that Mr. Schmidt's heart was touched, and he carried the flowers to the Governor's car. The girl was Miss Nellie Goodge, of 121 Upper Fourth street. A card, on which was written "From a good Republican," was attached to the bouquet.

Judge Gilhooly, the bank's attorney, said the institution was responsible and the loss would be made good. The furniture of Senator Jones and Mr. Croker, who, to and personal effects of Mrs. Hart, the public denunciation of trusts, add private woman on whom young Schreiber is said to have lavished the money of the Elizabethport bank, was removed to-day to a storage warehouse be order of the sheriff. Three large vans were required to remove the contents of the luxuriously furnished apartments. Mrs. Hart was present and angrily and tearfully protested against the removal of what she claimed to be her own personal property. It was reported tonight that one or more persons familiar with the affairs of the Elizabethport bank were suspected of having been confederates probably wo of Schreiber, and that an arrest might be ing place. effected, but up to a late hour no confirmation of the report had been obtained. While there are rumors that the whereabouts of Schreiber are practically known. there was nothing at Elizabethport to-night to confirm such reports. The belief still s general that he is still somewhere near by, and has not gone to Europe as has been reported. What is believed to be a warrant for the arrest of Schreiber was issued late this afternoon by Police Justice Mahan, of Elizabethport, after a hurried and secret conference in Chief Tenney's office at police Municipal League Sees the Sights.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. RICHMOND, Ind., Oct. 12 .- The members of the Municipal League of Indiana left Richmond to-day, well pleased with their visit here. The closing feature of the convention was a trip over the city this morning to many places of interest. There were special reasons for giving the next meeting to Columbus. One is because no meeting of the league has yet been held in the southern part of the State, and another is that the Columbus members have promised to enlist the interest of several other cities and towns within a short radius of Columbus which are not now identified with the league. It is probable the meetings will hereafter alternate between cities in the northern and southern portions of the State.

abandoned, and the children should be sent to a larger school, where they would have the advantage of better and more liberal facilitie

Another subject talked of was the license exempting teachers from taking examinations should be changed. Vaccination also was one of the most interesting topics for discussion. Superintendent Hissis, of Cass county, reported that by the enforcement of the law 20 per cent. of the children in his county had been kept out of school. It was the opinion of the superintendents that the law providing compulsory vac-cination should be repealed or limited. The matter of the wages of teachers was also discussed. It was said that in many places teachers do not receive enough to induce desirable instructors to enter or remain in the profession. A committee was appointed to confer with the legislative committee appointed at the last meeting of the superintendents of the State and formulate a bill fixing a minimum salary for the teachers of Indiana. The society will meet again, in Indianapolis, during the legislative session.

AFTER A WOMAN'S DEATH.

Man She Employed Announces Their Marriage-Legal Fight Pending.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 12.-The recent death of Mrs. Hattle Cramer, a few days ago, has had a strange sequel. Mrs Cramer was the widow of David Cramer, a wealthy farmer, who died about three years ago, leaving her an estate worth probably $25,000. On Tuesday Mrs. Cramer cropped dead while going about the house, and the coroner found that death resulted from fatty degeneration of the heart. The body was buried to-day.

This afternoon David McKenzie, who had worked on the Cramer place as a farm hand for several years, applied to the county clerk's office for letters of administration, saying he was Mrs. Cramer's husband. He says they were married in Indianapolis in 1898, and that he has the certificate. The relatives of the dead woman were notified and they have engaged counsel to look up the case for them, while Mr. McKenzie has retained an attorney to look after his interests.

BRYAN IN OHIO.

(CONCLUDED FROM FIRST PAGE.) that I am as big a man as the chairman thinks I am, but I am glad that I live in a country where the people can select one of their number, however humble he may be, and make him their instrument for the accomplishment of their will and when a private citizen is by the choice of his countrymen made chief executive of this Republic he then becomes the greatest man in the world, not in his own might, but in the might of the people of the greatest re-public in history. According to my idea a public officer is a public servant. He is chosen by the people to do for them what they want done, not what may be best for himself, and the people are entitled to know, first, that he stands for things that they believe in and second, that he will carry out the things which he promises to ticket to perpetuate this great wrong in carry out. You know my platform and you know whether you like it or not. If you like the platform you need not have any fear but that it will be carried out if I am elected. I believe that even the Republicans now will give me credit for meaning what I say. In fact I believe the greatest argument that is now used against my election is that I am an honest man and therefore dangerous. This argument cannot be brought against many Republicans | the name of patriotism and for the sake whom I might mention. "To see the sordid level upon which the Republican party wants to fight this campaign consider the three propositons now made by Republicans: First, that the money question is more important than any question that concerns human rights; second, that all the laboring man needs is a full dinner pail; and third, that the farmer ought to thank the Republican party for every rain that blesses his crops. You will find that the Republican party to-day is insisting that a standard of money is more important than a question of government that it is more important that a man shall have a gold dollar in his pocket, than he shall have a republic in which to live. You will hear them say that every laboring man ought to be satisfied as long as he is not hungry, and you will hear them say that the farmers are prosperous. You will hear them claim credit for the farmers' prosperity without showing any connection between any prosperity a farmer may enjoy this year or any other year, and the Republican party. We insist that a money question is more important than a ques tion of taxation and because we believed that in 1896, we declared the money ques-tion to be the paramount issue. Questions of taxation come up every year; questions of money come up every few years, but a question of government is a question of the century. BRYAN AN AGRICULTURIST. When Mr. Bryant was introduced at Springfield, where he had one of the best crowds of the day, some enthusiastic admirer in the rowd shouted: "Hurrah for the farmer President." The exclamation attracted Mr. Bryan's attention and he said: "I do not want to be elected under tion by passing a resolution condemning the capteen but making no mention of Presitween them, a farmer is a man who makes his money on the farm and spends it in received and I went with Mr. Andres town, while an agriculturist is a man who makes his money in town and spends it on the farm." This definition of the farmer pleased the audience and all listened attentively to his speech throughout. Mr. Bryan devoted his principal attention to the trusts and his arguments were along the usual lines.

The people of Dayton, where Mr. Bryan arrived about 1 o'clock, were unprepared to receive him. Owing to some misunderstanding his train had been bulletined as two hours late. At that place the meeting was held at the fair grounds and Mr. Bryan spoke from an open stand erected on the race course. Probably the most in teresting feature of this meeting was the fact that out of a hundred vice presidents of the meeting, twenty-four were Germans who either as Republicans or Gold Democrats, opposed Mr. Bryan's election four years ago. One of them was the exmayor of the city. In introducing his speech at Dayton, Mr. Bryan accused the Republican party with using specious arguments to catch particular classes of voters. As to the claim that the interests of the soldiers were safest in the care of the Republican party. Mr. Bryan said: "The soldier is in more danger if his interests are left to men who stand at the head of great monopolles than he is if he leaves his interests to those who belong to the common people. I will go further than that, I will say that the welfare of the union soldier and his pensions are safer in the hands of a confederate soldier than in the hands of a great monopoly, for the confederate soldier knows something about the sacrifices of war while the heads of syndicates only know war as an opportunity for the accumulation of great fortunes cut of the people's sufferings. But, my friends, the Republican insults the soldier when he assumes that the soldier is not a citizen as well as a pensioner. He insults the soldier when he assumes that a soldier has no interest except in the amount of his monthly or quarterly pension. The soldier is a citizen. He was a citizen during the war when he was willing to risk his life in his nation's defense. He is a soldier now and if he was willing to fight to have one republic instead of two he will be willing to vote now to keep that one republic from becoming an empire. If he was willing to fight then in order to wipe out of the Declaration of Independence an exceptional clause that excluded the black man, he will be willing to vote to keep another exceptional clause from being put into the Declaration, excluding the brown man. The soldier who did not believe that the black man ought to be sold for a thousand dollars will not be in favor of buying Filipinos in a job lot at $2.50 sels adapted for the work may be built.

WHAT BRYAN CAN DO. Mr. Bryan defined his feelings about his own election, saying: "I am more interested in the result of this election as a citizen than I am as a candidate. I am administration better than most of the Republicans who vote for the administration.

If I can make half as much as the Republicans say I can, I can make more criticising the administration than you Republicans can make under it. If my farm was doing as well as Republicans say I could live on my farm and I would not need of-"The President says, in his letter of acceptance, that you must be careful not to hurt the good trusts, and spends more time warning you not to hurt the good ones than he does telling you how to hurt the bad ones. The Republican candidate for Vice President spends more time denouncing those who denounce the trusts that he spends denouncing the trusts. But why speak of what the President says? Why speak of what the candidate for Vice President says, when I can quote you authority from headquarters? Mr. Hanna says there are no trusts. Do you think that the Republican party is going to destroy the trusts? When election day approaches the trust magnate says: 'Well, we will wait and see how you vote before we will tell you whether we will give you your daily bread or not.' Do you believe that it is safe to have that condition in this country? Is it safe to make it possible for these great nonopolies so to control the laboring men that they can threaten them with idleness and starvation if they do not vote the Republican ticket? Suppose a man has spent a lifetime learning some particular industry and there is but one man in the Nation to whom he can apply for employment if the industry is built up and a monopoly established. Then, if he is turned off, he loses the benefits of his skill. He is an outcast and must learn over. The duress that that monopoly can place upon that man is this country. In closing his Dayton speech Mr. Bryan said: "If you believe with us, make this your fight from now until election day and see that the majority is so large that neither corruption nor intimidation can defeat the triumph of the ideas of a republic and show the people of the United States that Ohio, the home of Presidents, is also the home of the principles of the early Presidents and the men who gave us our liberty and our institutions." During the afternoon Mr. Bryan made a duress that ought not to be supported in ten-minute speeches in Xenia, Washington C. H., Greenfield and Waverly. He reached Portsmouth at 7 o'clock and made his only evening speech at that point.

MONETT FOR BRYAN.

Ohio Republican Sorehead Thinks W.

Monett, former attorney general he contested the seat in the Liberal in- of Ohio; James R. Sovereign, former grand terest. F. W. Lambton's victory reversed master workman of the K. of L., and Val Fitzpatrick, grand vice chief of the Order division of Durban on the death of Sir of Railway Conductors. Mr. Monnett's Havelock-Allan, Liberal Unionist. contained the first public declaration of his intention to support Mr. Bryan. Mr. Monnett reviewed the prosecutions against various trust combinations and monopolies which he had undertaken while attorney general of the State, and concluded as fol-

"I believe that William McKinley and John W. Griggs, his attorney general and his executive officers, have willfully, purposely and knowingly paralyzed the executive arm of this government for the last four years and prevented the enforcement of the common law and the statute law, both criminally and civilly, against these law violators. And the hour has now come and the only time we will have for the next four years as voters to legally and constitutionally smite them for this hypoduty, and we should vote against every elector that is pledged on the Republican

I propose to cast my vote for that fearless, upright champion of the people, William J. Bryan.

On the way over several stops were made, the first being at Middletown, a Republican stronghold. Here the inhabitants turned out in considerable numbers, about half or them rushing forward to take Mr. Stevenson's hand, while the others stood on the other side of the street and shouted for McKinley. At Boonesborough, the next stop, three or four hundred people had gathered to hear Mr. Stevenson, who addressed them briefly on trusts and imperialsm. This was the only speech he made before reaching Hagerstown. Here he was introduced by Colonel Buchanan Schley, a relative of Admiral Schley, and once or twice he was interrupted by heedless mem-bers of the audience talking in the rear of the hall, and each time he refused to proceed until the conversation ceased. "I want you all to hear what I have to say," he declared. "It is important that you should hear and I mean that you shall

Would-Be Robbers Outwitted with Aid of the Telephone.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 12.-A shrewd attempt to rob the City National Bank of Kansas City and the Commercial Bank, of Lawson, Mo., of $5,000 was nipped in the bud to-day and Harry Turner and Robert O'Connor, telegraph operators, both of Kansas City, are under arrest. Last evening, it appears, a telegram was sent from Lawson to the Kansas City bank, signed "Commercial Bank," asking that $5,500 in currency be sent by express to Lawson. The Kansas City bank wired this morning Ind.; vice chief, S. J. Southard, Bellefonthat it had sent the money, but the telegram never reached the Lawson bank. Instead, O'Connor presented a telegram, apparently from the City National Bank, ordering the Commercial Bank to pay him the amount stated. The bank officials, becoming suspicious, telephoned Kansas City and O'Connor was placed under arrest in the bank while writing a draft. Later Turner was taken in. Investigation developed that the two men had telegraph instruments located outside Lawson and that they had sent the telegrams themselves.

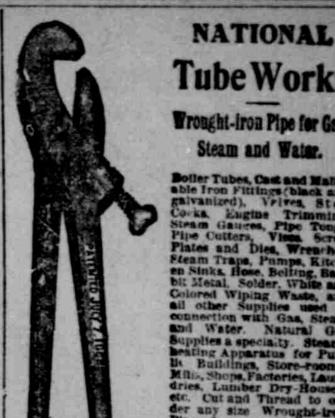

NORTH POLE EXPEDITION.

Wealthy New Yorker Will Equip Two Vessels for Explorer Baldwin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.-William Ziegler, a well-known and wealthy citizen of New York city, announced to-day that he would purchase two vessels, fully equipped, and man them and send them in quest of the north pole during the summer of 1901. The expedition is to be in charge of Evelyn B. Baldwin, who was a companion of Lieutenant Peary in his attempts to reach the pole in 1893 and 1894, and also a member of Walter Wellman's expedition. It is Mr. Ziegler's intention to have one vessel remain in the arctic regions' while the other returns for supplies. The expedition, it is said, will not be dispatched for the north earlier than the summer of 1901, and all the time between this date and that will be necessary for the preparation and out- | pail. fit. Ships may be purchased, though ves-
